"RIDE" teams up with Equine Advocates

Choreographer Paula Josa-Jones together with dancers DeAnna Pellecchia and Ingrid Schatz have been creating equestrian dance theater performances for the past ten years, celebrating the profound and mysterious primal bond between horse and human. They are currently developing a partnership with Equine Advocates in Chatham, New York, a non-profit equine protection organization dedicated to preventing the abuse of horses through both education and rescue operations. On Saturday, November 6th, DeAnna and Ingrid will perform excerpts from RIDE at Equine Advocates' Fall Benefit. Excerpts will include "Pony Dances", with trainer Sarah Hollis and liberty-trained horse Escorial and "Hip-Hop and Hooves," a duet between DeAnna and black Fresian, Sanne. More information to follow soon.
